

THE DOMINION POST

FEEL GOOD FACTOR: New Zealand Kettle Korn has launched the Eat My Lunch supporter's bag and a pledge that for every special bag of Kettle Korn someone buys, it will give another to a Kiwi kid in need. For New Zealand Kettle Korn - a small company with a big heart - it was a no-brainer to get involved with Eat My Lunch. With the release of the supporter's bag initiative in all major supermarkets this month, NZ Kettle Korn has set an ambitious goal to donate 100,000 extra bags to the Eat My Lunch programme. In just over one year, Eat My Lunch has given more than 180,000 lunches to children in 34 schools and counting.

12 THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 17, 2020 THE DOMINION POST

Keeping all the character

FROM PREVIOUS PAGE

"With a family of five you need a decent laundry where the kids can come in and dump their wet gear."

It's a really important area where they can shed their wet or muddy stuff after school or sport."

The new open plan living alone an enhanced social and family space to be enjoyed and however, to be concise and just to bring people in the same space, a change the family much appreciate.

The informal family was a 7' and couch and so they were, where the home used the table for really informal dining, soup and bread in between watching the side wall and sport.

Julian Tong King of the Joinery King in Thorndon, replicated the style of the original 1938 home, spending time recreating up the original profiles to ensure everything matched.

It was so thorough and meticulous in its approach, the look is the spirit of the original windows and opened the windows identical. He leaves very careful about the opening and look, very thorough and professional in his approach," says King.

While she wanted to retain the car set beneath the cabinet's saw, finished in a formal front. Malaga, which is used for ease of maintenance.

The project took six months in the building process and the family had a lot of input through the construction.

"The best builders can't have been more considerate and thoughtful, they were just amazing," says Alice. "They were so respectful and tolerant of the kids and every day left the house safe, clean and secure."

"That much being on a website to match color with such great guys during the work and knowing the cabinet would be in the situation and were considerate. Their respect and care was also excellent in being frequently looking at the finer features of the cabinet to ensure the finishing features looked the same."

The much loved car set Malaga used look was replaced during work. Also, says they were sad to see the car set end and they had come to the end of their life.

"They have also 75 years old and that become points - they were happy when we started putting a lot of weight on the structure of the house."

The new roof is gabled black metal, which Alice says look great, against the white and dark grey, and with the space 73 square metres of space over the back, the home now comfortably accommodates the family of five.

"While we hope the project proved very satisfying, the home is a beautiful beautiful feature, so to dodge an extension that is not suitable from the perspective of affecting the structure has been a good result and the fact it gives the family plenty of living space is the closest you can get to a dream."

WHAT'S NEW

EAT UP! Just opened this week in Wellington is Malaysian Dishes, the latest restaurant in the area that serves traditional Malaysian and modern dishes throughout Asia, Malaysia, Laos, and now at 1 City 15 in the capital.

It's slow just what it says on the label, with authentic, top-quality ingredients sourced from the best of Malay, Indian and Chinese influences that make Malaysian cuisine so diverse.

Take into traditional Malaysian bread with kaya and butter, nasi lemak, fried kway, ikan, curry laksa, soft drink, prawn mee and blue curry in the comfortable restaurant or grab a quick bite, it all takes delicious street way.

FEEL GOOD FACTOR: New Zealand Kettle Korn has launched the Eat My Lunch supporter's bag and a pledge that for every special bag of Kettle Korn someone buys, it will give another to a Kiwi kid in need. For New Zealand Kettle Korn - a small company with a big heart - it was a no-brainer to get involved with Eat My Lunch. With the release of the supporter's bag initiative in all major supermarkets this month, NZ Kettle Korn has set an ambitious goal to donate 100,000 extra bags to the Eat My Lunch programme. In just over one year, Eat My Lunch has given more than 180,000 lunches to children in 34 schools and counting.

■ To submit a new product or service for this column, and information to: Stefanie Gunn, THE DOMINION POST, Level 7, Spark Central, 42 St Albans St, Wellington, 6111 or PO Box 2700, Wellington, 6140. Or email stefanie@dominionpost.co.nz